In mathematics and computer science, currying is the technique of converting a function that takes multiple arguments into a sequence of functions that each take a single argument. For example, currying a function that takes three arguments creates three functions: $f(x, y, z) = (x, y) \rightarrow z$ Or more abstractly, a function that takes two arguments, one from A and one from B , and produces outputs in C , by ...

Port Manteaux churns out silly new words when you feed it an idea or two. Enter a word (or two) above and you'll get back a bunch of portmanteaux created by jamming together words that are conceptually related to your inputs.. For example, enter "giraffe" and you'll get back words like "gazellephant" and "gorilldebeest".
