Relationship Development Intervention® (RDI®) is customised for individual children. After an initial assessment, a consultant develops an individualised program for a child and trains the child 's parents to implement it. The program is made up of teaching strategies and techniques that parents use on a daily basis with their child.

Relationship Development Intervention (RDI) is an intervention which concentrates on helping autistic children learn social skills so that they can enjoy socializing.
Practitioners teach the children to be flexible in their interactions with others and to develop emotional connectedness.
